Joseph's Workbench

Below is a homily on today's readings given by Pope Francis during his weekly Angelus address in St. Peter's Square on January 26, 2014.

This Sunday's Gospel recounts the beginnings of the public life of Jesus in the cities and villages of Galilee. His mission does not begin in Jerusalem, the religious centre and also the social and political centre, but in an area on the outskirts, an area looked down upon by the most observant Jews because of the presence in that region of various foreign peoples; that is why the Prophet Isaiah calls it "Galilee of the nations" (Is 9:1).

It is a borderland, a place of transit where people of different races, cultures, and religions converge. Thus Galilee becomes a symbolic place for the Gospel to open to all nations. From this point of view, Galilee is like the world of today: the co-presence of different cultures, the necessity for comparison and the necessity of encounter. We too are immersed every day in a kind of "Galilee of the nations", and in this type of context we may feel afraid and give in to the temptation to build fences to make us feel safer, more protected. But Jesus teaches us that the Good News, which he brings, is not reserved to one part of humanity, it is to be communicated to everyone. It is a proclamation of joy destined for those who are waiting for it, but also for all those who perhaps are no longer waiting for anything and haven't even the strength to seek and to ask.

Starting from Galilee, Jesus teaches us that no one is excluded from the salvation of God, rather it is from the margins that God prefers to begin, from the least, so as to reach everyone. He teaches us a method, his method, which also expresses the content, which is the Father's mercy. "Each Christian and every community must discern the path that the Lord points out, but all of us are asked to obey his call to go forth from our own comfort zone in order to reach all the 'peripheries' in need of the light of the Gospel" (Apostolic Exhortation, Evangelii Gaudium, n. 20).

Jesus begins his mission not only from a decentralized place, but also among men whom one would call, refer to, as having a "low profile". When choosing his first disciples and future apostles, he does not turn to the schools of scribes and doctors of the Law, but to humble people and simple people, who diligently prepare for the coming of the Kingdom of God. Jesus goes to call them where they work, on the lakeshore: they are fishermen. He calls them, and they follow him, immediately. They leave their nets and go with him: their life will become an extraordinary and fascinating adventure.

Dear friends, the Lord is calling today too! The Lord passes through the paths of our daily life. Even today at this moment, here, the Lord is passing through the square. He is calling us to go with him, to work with him for the Kingdom of God, in the "Galilee" of our times. May each one of you think: the Lord is passing by today, the Lord is watching me, he is looking at me! What is the Lord saying to me? And if one of you feels that the Lord says to you "follow me" be brave, go with the Lord. The Lord never disappoints. Feel in your heart if the Lord is calling you to follow him. Let's let his gaze rest on us, hear his voice, and follow him! "That the joy of the Gospel may reach to the ends of the earth, illuminating even the fringes of our world" (ibid., n. 288).

Stewardship Prayer

Lord God, You alone are the source of every good gift, of the vast array of the universe, and the mystery of each human life. We praise You and we thank You for Your great power and Your tender, faithful love.

Everything we are and everything we have is Your gift, and after having created us You have given us into the keeping of Your Son, Jesus Christ.

Fill our minds with His truth and our hearts with His love, that in His Spirit we may be bonded together into a community of faith, a parish family, a caring people.

In the name and Spirit of Jesus, we commit ourselves to be good stewards of the gifts entrusted to us, to share our time, our talent, our material gifts as an outward sign of the Treasure we hold in Jesus. Amen.

St. Marianne Cope

Saint Marianne Cope, a Sister of St. Francis of the Neumann Communities, was canonized on October 21, 2012. She is the first Franciscan woman from North America to be canonized, and only the 11th American Saint. A woman of great valor, this beloved mother of outcasts spent her early years in Central New York where she served as a leader in the field of health care, education, and of her own congregation. Responding to a call to care for the poor sick on the then Sandwich Islands, she devoted 35 years to caring for those afflicted with Hansen's Disease on Kalaupapa, Molo-kai, Hawaii. We observe the Feast Day of St. Marianne Cope on January 23.

Prayer

O God, who called us to serve your Son in the least of our brothers and sisters, grant, we pray, that by the example and intercession of the Virgin Saint Marianne Cope, we may burn with love for you and for those who suffer.

Through our Lord Jesus Christ, your Son, who lives and reigns with you in the unity of the Holy Spirit, God, for ever and ever. Amen.

From the Book: Wouldn't Take Nothing for My Journey Now By: Maya Angelou

"Every person needs to take one day away. A day in which one consciously separates the past from the future. Jobs, lovers, family, employers, and friends can exist one day without any one of us, and if our egos permit us to confess, they could exist eternally in our absence.

Each person deserves a day away in which no problems are confronted, no solutions searched for. Each of us needs to withdraw from the cares which will not withdraw from us. We need hours of aimless wandering or spates of time sitting on park benches, observing the mysterious world of ants and the canopy of treetops.

If we step away for a time, we are not, as many may think and some will accuse, being irresponsible, but rather we are preparing ourselves to more ably perform our duties and discharge our obligations.

When I return home, I am always surprised to find some questions I sought to evade had been answered and some entanglements I had hoped to flee had become unraveled in my absence.

A day away acts as a spring tonic. It can dispel rancor, transform indecision, and renew the spirit."

10 COMMANDMENTS FOR TODAY

Number One:

Only for today I will seek to live the lifelong day Positively without wishing to solve the problems of my life all at once.

Number Two:

Only for today I will take great care of my appearance. I will dress modestly, I will not raise my voice, I will be courteous in my behavior, I will not criticize anyone and I will not claim to improve or discipline anyone except myself.

Number Three:

Only for today I will be happy in the certainty that I was created to be happy, not only in this world, but also in the next.

Number Four:

Only for today I will adapt to circumstances without requiring that all circumstances be adapted to my wishes.

Number Five:

Only for today I will devote ten minutes of time to good reading, and I will remember that just as food is necessary for the life of the body, good reading is necessary for the life of the soul.

Number Six:

Only for today I will do one good deed and not tell anyone about it.

Number Seven:

Only for today I will do at least one thing I do not like, and if my feelings are hurt, I will make sure that nobody notices.

Number Eight:

Only for today I will make a plan for myself. I might not follow it, but I will make it. And I will be on guard against two evils - hastiness and indecision.

Number Nine:

Only for today I will believe firmly, despite appearances, that the good providence of God cares for me the way nothing else cares for me.

Number Ten:

Only for today I will have no fears. And particularly, I will not be afraid to enjoy what is beautiful and to believe in the goodness of life. Indeed, for twelve hours I can certainly do this - that which might cause me consternation were I to believe I had to do it my whole life
